I sqashed and applied your patch in commit:896fa80784e2a44cb15700ee50dd98a1e3967f8e. Thanks for your contribution!

As a hint for next time: please make sure that you structure your contributions into the _right_ granularity of commits. I understand this is hard to get right at first but please ask yourself whether commits make sense to stand together or be separated. In this case, a single commit would have been adequate.

Proper rebasing and sqashing of commits saves us much work which helps us including yours contributions (and that of others) faster and with less friction.
