

ChiliProject - Task # 111: Project objective: increase development speed

Status:	Closed	Priority:	Normal
Author:	Niels Lindenthal	Category:
Created:	2011-01-26	Assignee:
Updated:	2011-09-04	Due date:
Remote issue URL:
Description:	I consider improvements in the development speed a fundamental goal of this project. Is there anybody who thinks that this shouldn't be our goal?

Associated revisions

2011-11-13 09:11 pm - Felix Schäfer

Merge pull request #111 from edavis10/ticket/unstable/672-query-subprojects

#672 Allow queries to include subproject issues

History

2011-01-26 08:57 pm - Eric Davis

- Project changed from Organization to ChiliProject

This should be in the main project since objectives and goals are what we are publicly attempting to meet.

2011-01-26 08:57 pm - Eric Davis

- Target version deleted (Public Launch)

2011-01-26 09:39 pm - Niels Lindenthal

On IRC I heard some concerns about how to measure development speed. We all agree that this difficult but is this a reason why we should not strive for improvements? Even if can not measure exactly if we achieved this objective I don't think missing metrics should stop us to continuously think about improvements in any of our objectives.

2011-02-01 10:49 pm - Felix Schäfer

- Status set to Open

2011-09-04 09:38 pm - Holger Just

- Status changed from Open to Closed

I think we are actually really good at fulfilling this goal. But I agree that development speed is actually really hard to measure. If there are any actual issues with development speed in the future, we should discuss it. But as I said, I think we are rather good here.