Affected version:	3.3.0
Description:	When I go into my custom query, I select "Current project and its subprojects", then click Save. The page that comes up appears to be correct, showing me all issues in the current project and its subprojects. When I browse to a different project and select this query, it does no longer shows subprojects. When I go to edit the query the button has reverted to "Current project"
