Description: As an active enough user of Redmine in the past I never noticed this link in order to change an issue name. And it seems like not only me was so inattentive: http://www.redmine.org/boards/1/topics/10510 http://www.redmine.org/boards/2/topics/2547 http://www.redmine.org/issues/3695  Now I experienced the same trouble with ChiliProject. Just googled a bit and found the above bugs. In my opinion, setting the aim to have more friendly user interface than Redmine, ChiliProject should make some effort to implement this feature in more obvious manner. I'm not a designer or Ruby programmer, but i think it's possible to move the link, for instance, to right bottom corner of the "Change properties" area. Or make a drop-down area like the Files area or something.
