ChiliProject - Feature # 572: Remove sidebar from Gantt chart view...

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Status: | Declined | Priority: | Low |
| Author: | Nick Peelman | Category: | Gantt chart |
| Created: | 2011-08-10 | Assignee: | |
| Updated: | 2011-11-14 | Due date: | |
| Remote issue URL: | | | |
| Affected version: | | | |
| Description: | Quite possibly one of the more lame / least useful (default) sidebars, especially when paired with a view that almost demands more width anyway.  With a proper theme that obeys the no-sidebar main container class, the view becomes more useful for its intended purpose, seeing the gantt chart. | | |

History

2011-08-10 02:43 am - Nick Peelman

Done in "changeset 2a49027214d178a5a868":https://github.com/peelman/chiliproject/commit/2a49027214d178a5a86808005acb1f181a45ce0e

2011-08-15 09:38 am - Tom Rochette

- Status changed from Open to Ready for review

2011-11-13 08:23 pm - Felix Schäfer

Would the sidebar be more useful if the links in it pointed to the gantt chart with the corresponding query?

2011-11-14 01:14 am - Eric Davis

Felix Schäfer wrote:

> Would the sidebar be more useful if the links in it pointed to the gantt chart with the corresponding query?

I like this idea more. I use saved queries on gantt chart so removing the sidebar wouldn't be useful.

2011-11-14 05:56 am - Felix Schäfer

- Status changed from Ready for review to Declined

Rejecting this issue, it will probably not be of relevance in the revamped design anyway. I put the idea with the links in the sidebar pointing to the query in the view they are in in #697.

Nick, Tom, thanks for noticing and reporting :-)