Description:	it would be nice, if upon submitting an issue or comment, it will be parsed for referenced issues and automatically links them in the "related issue"-list.
	as this is done only a single time, it's possible to remove or re-categorize (e.g. "blocked by") these automatically created links, afterwards.
	i guess this is a quite simple request, that isn't hard to implement, as referenced issues in text are already parsed and should not have side-effects on other features.
	extra points for a rake-task that takes an issue#-range and does this for already existing issues.
